WHO: Jason Heath and the Greedy Souls www.jasonheathandthegreedysouls.com

Jason Heath & The Greedy Soul's new album, But There's Nowhere To Go, is a cry from the broken belly of the American Dream, where time, neglect and corruption has taken its toll on this grand experiment called The U, S of A. But There's Nowhere To Go builds on the same foundation of fiery roots-rock heard on their previous albums, which prompted Paste Magazine to call their first record, A Vain Hope Of Horse, – featuring guests Tom Morello (Rage Against The Machine), Wayne Kramer (The MC5) and Nels Cline (Wilco) – “A wonderful debut: ragged, soulful, and well written.” Famed rock journalist Dave Marsh said of their second disc, Packed For Exile, “Jason Heath and The Greedy Souls speak to the heartache and joy in the world, with the wisdom not to try to separate them, and the skill to make all of it beautiful.” And American Songwriter Magazine referred to their last release, A Season Undone, “...if you're a fan of rock and roll, it deserves to be on your shortlist as one of the most heartfelt, honest and intelligently soulful rocking albums of the year.” This will be Jason Heath and the Greedy Soul's 12th visit to The Midnight Mission and everyone is looking forward to their return.

WHY: The Midnight hosts Music With A Mission (MWAM) to entertain and inspire those living on Skid Row. Music is a survival tactic for many people in dealing with life's difficulties. MWAM is aimed at bringing our community together through music. MWAM is quite simple. Musicians bring their instruments and play for our homeless and near-homeless guests. It is an intimate setting, so musicians have the opportunity to interact with our guests, answer questions, and/or talk about music and its history. We encourage musicians to invite their fan base so they can engage and enjoy music with individuals they would not normally encounter in their daily lives. We are currently looking for sponsors for this ever-growing community event. If you are interested, please contact Georgia Berkovich at 213-624-4588 or gberkovich@midnightmission.org.
