STREET SYMPHONY BRINGS RESOUND FESTIVAL &
10th ANNUAL MESSIAH PROJECT TO SKID ROW

RE/SOUND /rə'zound (of a sound, voice, etc.) A reference to "repeat the sounding joy", from Joy To The World, related to how all of us come together to create a "symphony" - "sound together" as a community!

We are delighted that Street Symphony is bringing their RE/Sound Festival to The Midnight Mission on Sunday, December 7, 2025, from 12 pm to 4 pm. The day-long event will include music and volunteer service. Volunteers will help us serve lunch and Skid Row advocacy organizations, including the Department of Public Health, will offer hygiene kits, vaccinations and Narcan training, and much more.

RE/Sound will present live, free musical performances from over three dozen world-class, LA-based musical artists, such as Son California, Street Symphony Chamber Singers, Street Symphony Jazz Ensemble, Las Chorizeras and more. The festival will also include a sing-along performance of Handel's oratorio, Messiah, led by the organization's founder, 2018 MacArthur Fellow and former LA Phil violinist Vijay Gupta.

Street Symphony's 10th annual Messiah Project will take place in the dining hall from 2:00PM to 3:30 PM. Each year since 2015, Street Symphony has presented the "Messiah Project" which is a culmination of months of lessons, rehearsals, and workshops in the community - and an opportunity for musicians throughout LA County to not only make music, but to serve, listen and collaborate with our neighbors in Skid Row. The VIPs for this event will be members of the Skid Row community, including clients and residents from our community partner organizations.

"Music is to the soul what food is to the body, and Street Symphony has been feeding the soul of Skid Row for years," said Georgia Hawley, Chief Communications Officer, TMM. "Our love and gratitude for Vijay Gupta and his extraordinary musicians runs so deep. They don't just perform, they listen, they connect, and they honor the humanity of every person who walks through our doors."

Since its founding in 2011, Street Symphony has presented thousands of world-class musical performances in Skid Row shelters and clinics, as well as in county jails, state prisons and reentry centers, creating pathways toward relationship, renewal, reentry, and recovery. The Messiah Project has been featured in numerous national press outlets such as The New Yorker, NPR, BBC Radio 3 and The Los Angeles Times.

Music is more than entertainment: it's a lifeline. And Street Symphony believes in the power of music to heal, our responsibility has always been to the community of Skid Row. In Skid Row, the arts are vital — as a pathway to self-authorship and reentry, to sobriety and relationship. In our fragmented world, music holds up a mirror to our very best selves, to our values, our hopes, and our collective dignity.

Street Symphony Founder Vijay Gupta said, "Street Symphony offers music: music, that loving soul-food, offered from a place of intimate connection and care in the face of pain, not aimed to fix, preach or redeem, but to welcome the most fragile and vulnerable parts of ourselves into a place of welcome - to witness and take part in mutual healing."

The event is FREE and ALL are welcome!
