The Midnight Mission is delighted to welcome Street Symphony back for their 124th visit. Street Symphony brings ensembles of world-class musicians to perform for our guests, and this week's program will feature the Street Symphony Chamber Singers.

Street Symphony, directed by Violinist Vijay Gupta, brings live musical outreach and educational workshops to audiences without access to the arts, throughout Southern California. Street Symphony ensembles perform at LA County Jails and homeless shelters in downtown Los Angeles, as well as public events for the community-at-large, aimed to raise awareness for issues of mental health, incarceration, and homelessness. Their mission at large is to bring music to the most underserved communities throughout L.A.

WHY: The Midnight hosts Music With a Mission (MWAM) to entertain and inspire those living on Skid Row. Music is a survival tactic for many people in dealing with life’s difficulties. MWAM is aimed at bringing our community together through music. MWAM is quite simple. Musicians bring their instruments and play for our homeless and near-homeless guests. It is an intimate setting, so musicians have the opportunity to interact with our guests, answer questions and/or talk about music and its history. We encourage musicians to invite their fan base so they can engage and enjoy music with individuals they would not normally encounter in their daily lives.

We are currently looking for sponsors for this ever-growing community event. If you are interested, please contact Georgia Hawley at 213-624-4588 or ghawley@midnightmission.org.
